Your website is your face to the world. It represents you and projects an image of what you and your firm stand for and the quality of the products and services you offer. Accordingly, if it is unavailable, defaced, or even compromised, it reflects poorly on you and your firm. And with your reputation tarnished by such events, customers will go elsewhere. With more and more business starting on the web, this puts you at more and more at risk of losing revenue.

Hellfire experts will protect your website and the applications they host with an enterprise-grade web application firewall. By profiling your site, your site applications, and it's exchanges with the user we determine what looks normal and what doesn't. With this information, we tune the web application firewall to only allow normal exchanges with your site and application, and scrub out the rest.

This will protect your site and it's applications from attack, because rather than trying to identify every single possible attack or future attack (which would be endless), we simply our approach and just concentrate on allowing what you expect to see to reach the site.
